

Scotland performs well on key sustainability measures, particularly amongst international visitors

Scottish residents were least likely to agree that Scotland takes care of its natural environment